The	(GAFSP), a US$2 billion global financing platform dedicated to improving food and nutrit	tion security worldwide, is supporting to the current global food security crisi	s and tackle overlapping crises, from climate change to the impacts of the global pandemic, and rising food	d, fuel, and energy prices. Working in partnership with leading development agencies ¹ ,

- An indicative amount of US$175 million will be allocated by the GAFSP Steering Committee to the highest-ranking Country-led project proposals in early 2023, with an additional US$25 million awarded to Producer Organizations-led proposals soon after.
- GAFSP financing is highly competitive; demand from counties and producer organizations is expected to outstrip available resources, so not all proposals received can be financed. Strong proposals that are unsuccessful in receiving funding may be conditionally approved by the GAFSP Steering Committee, with full approval contingent on the receipt of additional donor contributions.

- Examples of project activities that could be funded include increasing access to quality inputs, diversifying food systems, promoting quality standards and packaging to meet quality requirements, reducing food loss and waste, and supporting the introduction of dimate-resilient land and water management practices.
- Given this urgent timeline, the construction of large-scale and commercial irrigation infrastructures, rural access or feeder roads, or large market infrastructure cannot be financed.
- Project proposals will need to assess and address dimate considerations, and should take into consideration cross-cutting themes, including improving nutritional outcomes and empowering women, girls, and young people.
